

Dier's Aid Said To Have Bared Firm's Secrets

Branch Manager of Concern Which Failed for $4,000,000 Made "Full and Open" Confession

Prosecutor Says Only Other Three Indicted Men Can Add to Information

The confession made by Adam G. Recklein, one of the four men indicted as a result of the failure last January of E. D. Dier & Co., is believed to have put into the hands of the District Attorney's office virtually all the information about the operations of the bankrupt stock brokerage house that can be obtained from any one outside of the principals themselves.

Recklein completed his confession yesterday. After the former Pittsburgh manager of the company that failed for more than $4,000,000 last January had left the Criminal Courts Building, Ferdinand Pecora, Assistant District Attorney, said:

"The co-defendant of Dier, Adam G. Recklein, was called to the District Attorney's office and has made a full and open confession, not only of his own implication in the affairs of E. D. Dier & Co., but of all the other affairs of the firm within his knowledge."

Intimate Knowledge of Books

Recklein had an intimate knowledge of the inside workings of E. D. Dier & Co., as he was the trusted manager of the Pittsburgh branch and had been employed at the main office in New York. Recklein is supposed to be in a position to describe in detail the transactions in an office that kept its records in such a way that even the bankruptcy lawyers have been unable to untangle many of them. With the possible exception of Benjamin F. Schrimpton, the missing New York manager, also indicted with Dier, and Lawrence, the other partner, and of Fred Andrews, the former cashier, there is no one, it is believed, who can be of greater assistance in explaining the involved deals of the bankrupt firm than Recklein.

An accountant, George P. McLoughlin, who has been examining the books of a number of brokerage houses that were caught in the wave of failures for the District Attorney's office, has been checking up Recklein's statements in the Dier books. Recklein made several visits to the District Attorney's office before his confession was completed. Recklein's statement was made with entire freedom and was voluntary. He received no promise of immunity. It was said, in exchange for his complete knowledge of the operations of the Dier office. That the confession was characterized as "full and complete" is believed to mean that the Dier books, the inner workings of the New York and Pittsburgh offices have been exposed. The indictments against Recklein, nine in number, charge the bucking of orders for stock. He was released after arraignment in $10,000 bail.

May See Wife Only; Court Bars Her Mother

CHICAGO, July 22.—John Haas was restrained by court order, made public to-day, from "visiting, seeing, talking to or riding with any woman except his wife."

Another injunction restrained Haas's mother-in-law from "visiting, talking with or in any way interfering with the domestic happiness or conjugal felicity" of Haas and his wife.

The restraining orders followed a reconciliation after Mrs. Haas had sued for divorce. She claimed her husband would not "forget other women." He said his mother-in-law caused the trouble.

Held in $60,000 Bail, Alleged Robber Asks Judge to Shoot Him

Two Charged With Hold-Up and Stealing Auto to Escape With $5,000; Three Accused of Complicity

Jacob Wasserman and Harry Walker were arraigned yesterday in Essex Market Court before Magistrate Oberwager charged with having participated in a hold-up and with having stolen an automobile for the getaway. They were held in $60,000 bail each.

Wasserman had described himself as an electrician, twenty-seven years old and living at 440 East Houston Street. Walker said he was twenty-two years old and that he lived at 194 Ross Street, Brooklyn. Detective Whalen, of the Clinton Street police station, was with them.

"What are the details in this case?" asked Magistrate Oberwager. Whalen said that the two men, in company with others, had held up Joseph Laux, of 394 Sterling Street, Brooklyn, and had taken $5,000 from him last Friday.

"Did the defendants use guns?" asked Magistrate Oberwager. "Yes, your honor," answered Whalen. "I'm not sure of the facts. It's too bad," he shook his head. "It's too bad that the two men didn't go off and shoot one of you fellows."

Wasserman spoke up: "Judge," he said, "I wish you had a gun now. I'd let you blow my brains out."

"M'm," said Magistrate Oberwager, and held the pair in $50,000 bail each on the robbery charge and $10,000 each on the charge of having stolen the automobile.

The automobile was stolen from in front of 250 Greene Street on July 18. It belonged to Joseph Rosen, of 894 Irving Street, the Bronx. The license plates are said to have been changed by the thieves.

Three other men who were arrested near the scene of the hold-up, Columbia and Broome streets, were held on short affidavits, charging complicity. They said they were Jacob Shapiro, twenty-four years old, of 684 Sackman Street, Brooklyn; Samuel Rubin, twenty-one years old, of 392 South Fourth Street, Brooklyn; and Charles Frabio, twenty-four years old, of 55 Avenue B, Manhattan.

Jane Street Fire in Control

Some Rolls of Paper in Center of Building Still Smoldering

According to Deputy Fire Chief Helm, in charge of the forces fighting the fire of the Manufacturers' Transit Company, Inc., 10 to 14 Jane Street, yesterday afternoon, the body of the blaze was then out, and, in the parlance of the department, the firemen "had their fire licked." Rolls of paper in the center of the building are still smoldering, however, and may continue to do so for some time.

The work of clearing the building went on throughout the day and the streets on both sides were piled high with the debris. It is believed that this work will not be completed for two or three days.

New Waiting Rooms Ordered At East New York Transfer

The Transit Commission yesterday, in accordance with a general policy, issued directions to the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (B. R. T.) covering the construction of waiting rooms upon east and westbound platforms at Eastern Parkway station, East New York, and on the westbound platform of the Atlantic Avenue station, also at East New York.

At the Eastern Parkway station, upon both the west and eastbound platforms, there is a general transfer of passengers desiring to reach points on the Fulton Street, Jamaica and Canarsie routes. Atlantic Avenue is a transfer point between Canarsie and Fulton Street trains.
